DESCRIPTION

The Burrowes Building is the eastern most portion of a three-building composition, by Charles Zeller Klauder, that defines the Pattee Mall in University Park.

The four-story 1938 central portion of this building is solely Klauder's work. Two flanking five-story wings in were added in 1968, creating an H-shaped exterior massing. This resulted in a misalignment of floor levels between the wings and core with the net assignable space consumed by the inefficient vertical circulation.

"Completed, the project will transform the space for greater learning and scholarship by our faculty and students, will preserve the central building's historic appearance and will improve Burrowes' face on the mall by redesigning the connectors," said Susan Welch, The Susan Welch Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.
